DIVISION OF LIBRARY EXTENSION

A diagnostic eye and an analytical pencil applied to the task of adding up the fiscal 1962 score for this agency disclosed new services, special activities, results and effects which indicate convincingly that the manner of federal-state-local partnership to improve the quality of public and school library service is paying off in current dividends. The statistics following the body of this report give an impressive quantitative view of this Division's activities and the use of its services and materials. The qualitative improvement in library service in this Commonwealth is equally impressive and more important but is less tangible and more difficult to measure. The record shows clearly that we are not losing sight of national standards nor are we letting them become lost in the hard realities of existing situations. We are looking eagerly and imaginatively at the possibilities for new forms of coordination and cooperation; and we are planning for the consolidation of our library strengths rather than the extension of our library weaknesses.

PUBLIC LIBRARY SERVICE

With 381 of the Commonwealth's 390 public libraries reporting to the Board of Library Commissioners for the calendar year 1961, these interesting facts on public library support and use were compiled:

Total Public Library income	$15,836,517.
Statewide per capita library income	$ 3.07
Expenditures for salaries	$ 9,847,267.
Expenditures for books	$ 2,259,701.
Statewide total book circulation	33,168,842
Statewide per capita book circulation	6.4

Total public library income was up 9% over 1960. Expenditures for salaries showed a 10% increase; and for books a 16% increase over those of the previous year. Circulation of books increased 2%.

Per capita expenditures by population groups always point up interesting differences between per capita highs, lows, and averages for each group.

Population Group	No. of Cities & Towns Reporting	Average Per Capita Library Income	Per Capita Range Low High
100,000 and over	5 of 5	$4.27	$2.30 $5.16
50,000-99,999	15 of 15	2.79	1.20 7.95
25,000-49,999	27 of 28	3.08	.93 5.68
10,000-24,999	73 of 73	2.62	.40 6.45
5,000-9,999	58 of 59	1.98	.17 6.05
Under 5,000	162 of 166	2.26	.04 12.04

SCHOOL LIBRARY SERVICE

In August 1961, Mrs. Charlene S. McKeithen resigned as Supervisor of School Libraries. Because the position remained vacant during the remainder of the fiscal year, advisory service to school libraries was drastically curtailed. Every effort was made to supply book collections for classroom use or to supplement centralized school libraries in communities where the public libraries were not adequate to provide such collections. A mimeographed brochure entitled Ideas for Planning Your School Library was prepared during the spring and summer of 1961 by a committee of school librarians chaired by Mrs. McKeithen. This publication was a cooperative effort of the Massachusetts School Building Assistance Commission and this Division. Hundreds of copies of the brochure have been duplicated since September 1961 and distributed widely in the state to school administrators and school committee members as well as to state school library supervisors throughout the country.

REGIONAL LIBRARY SERVICE

The four regional branch offices of this agency located in Fall River, Greenfield, North Reading and Pittsfield are currently giving direct regional book and advisory service to 124 rural municipalities of the state's 351 cities and towns. This state service, so noticeably strengthened by Library Services Act or federal funds, has not competed with nor trespassed upon the local library service. It has backstopped and strengthened local service and produced a very beneficial effect both upon the provision of local funds for library service and upon the local library service program itself. During the past year local support of public libraries in rural communities increased 13.5%. Expenditures for books and related materials showed a 20.7% increase; with salary expenditures up 14%. Circulation of books from the rural libraries increased 3.8% and hours of library service were increased in 89 small towns.

STATE AID FOR PUBLIC LIBRARIES

State grants-in-aid for local public libraries totalling $1,229,992.95 were distributed in 1962 to 277 of the 340 cities and towns eligible to apply for the Chapter 760, Acts of 1960 grant. In an effort to insure the allocation of these grants for public library purposes, H366, a bill to amend the 1960 state aid legislation, was filed by Representative Kaplan at the request of the Board of Library Commissioners for consideration by the General Court in 1962. Under the provisions of the proposed amended legislation, the direct state grants paid to municipalities for public libraries would be deposited with city or town treasurers to be held in a separate account for expenditure by library trustees without further appropriation. A considerable ground swell of opposition to the amendment was generated by associations of public officials who declared it a "further flagrant intrusion on home rule." When the House and Senate could not agree on the provisions of the bill, it was referred to a Joint Conference Committee. This Committee also failed to agree and the General Court adjourned before a new committee was named.

There has been much positive thinking and a great deal of discussion on the matter of the establishment of a comprehensive statewide program of regional public library systems to be brought into existence under Sections 19C and D of the State Aid Law. The whole notion of building a completely new structure of public library services is as challenging and complex as are the many personalities and the political and emotional factors involved! Progress toward the achievement of the systems cannot be reported in terms of cut and dried statistics nor can results of numerous meetings be evaluated in terms of interest and cooperation achieved. Public library systems in Massachusetts are "in the making." When discouragement rears its ugly head, we remind ourselves that the regional school concept was a long time a-borning! We look to next year's report for definite and dramatic news on this front.

LIBRARIANS ARE NOT BORN—THEY ARE TRAINED!

The guidance and training of local library personnel received a high priority rating among the agency's 1962 services and activities. We feel strongly that one of the Division's most important functions is the development of a high quality personnel in all libraries—large and small. We also realize that all training for librarianship cannot be conducted at the graduate library school level. A compromise effort must be geared to and work with existing and available human resources! Through a rich variety of forms from traditional advisory field visits to a remarkably large number of special courses, one-day clinics and institutes, University Extension courses of the lecture and correspondence varieties, and a modest state program of scholarship grants made available by the Massachusetts Library Aid Association, we brought hundreds of practicing librarians and library assistants into "unorthodox" in-service training programs. For the first time this year, an attractive certificate has been devised and is awarded as a tangible evidence of effort and accomplishment to those who participate in these on-the-job improvement opportunities.

FROM LUNCHEON WITH THE GOVERNOR TO ELECTROMECHANICS AND TELECOMMUNICATIONS

Biggest business-social luncheon in our lives this past year was the First Governor's Conference on Libraries held on April 12, 1962. Five hundred and fifty (550) librarians, library trustees, friends of libraries and municipal officers jammed the ballroom of the Hotel Somerset in Boston in response to Governor John A. Volpe's invitation. Spearheading plans for the event, the Division had the cooperation of the Massachusetts Committee on National Library Week, the Massachusetts Library Association, and the Massachusetts Library Trustees Association. In his address of welcome, Governor Volpe recalled the notable heritage of libraries in the Bay State and exhorted the audience to meet the need for a continual forward movement toward the goal of adequate library service for all cities and towns. Dr. Franklin K. Patterson, Director of the Lincoln Filene Center for Citizenship and Public Affairs at Tufts University was the keynoter. He summed up four major challenges in this way: 1. a new dedication to a free public library as indispensable for a free society; 2. the necessity for developing a balanced but strengthened fiscal basis of public support; 3. the provision of adequate professional staffs, capital improvements, and a general upgrading of present operations; and 4. a need for innovations in ideas, services and technology.

From September 13-15, 1961, a Book Selection Institute co-sponsored by the Simmons College School of Library Science, the Massachusetts Division of Library Extension, and the Massachusetts Library Association was held at the new Simmons College Library and Library School Building. The capacity attendance heard libraries in a changing society and book selection policies reassessed and discussed by such luminaries of the book publishing and library world as Dan Lacy, Dr. Lester Asheim and Mrs. Florence Craig.

The Division has also been regularly represented at several meetings this past year of a group of librarians from public, university and special libraries who have met periodically to discuss the potentialities of the formation of New England Regional Cooperative Library System for Information Retrieval.

"DOGGY PUBLIC RELATIONS"

All licensed dogs with owners on the other end of a leash were recently invited to the second annual dog party held on the grounds of the Hubbardston Public Library in September of 1961. Prizes were awarded to the most beautiful, most interesting, oldest, youngest, shortest, longest, fattest, thinnest and best behaved dogs present. Licensed dogs from nearby towns were welcomed! This is rural public library public relations, hospitality and appreciation par excellence. According to Massachusetts statutes, funds received locally from dog license fees must be allocated for the support of local public libraries or schools. The Hubbardston Public Library receives the dog tax funds and thus expresses its gratitude to its canine population!

IMPRESSIONS AND SUGGESTIONS

It has been estimated that the number of adults in the United States will probably come close to doubling in the next twenty-five years. The proportion of the population over sixty-five is also growing very rapidly and has nearly doubled in the past generation. Another fact is that our rapidly growing population is also a better educated one. So there are a lot more people in prospect that are better educated, have wider bodies of knowledge at their command, will have more leisure time, and are under greater need for continuing self-education.

Young people of today are reading at a level of maturity unequalled in previous years and their reading reflects a growing awareness of the nation's role in world affairs.

Public and school libraries must not only be maintained, but expanded, and adequately supported and staffed to meet these challenges. Every road toward better library facilities must be explored. All forms of regional and system organization must be checked out. The state library extension agency has a key role to play in the Massachusetts program of library improvement.

How well the role is played will depend largely on the strength of staff and degree of fiscal support accorded this agency. We pledge our best efforts to the task of measuring up to the expanding dimensions of library service because better libraries and better librarians make for better schools and better communities.
